→ Do these first

- 01 Dispute the 8 underpaid payments with your purchase invoices. The first window closes 25 Oct 2026.
- 02 Ask Amazon where the units were found for the 3 reversals in section 02.
- 03 Check the 10 shortlisted shipments for shortages. That is step 2.
- 04 Submit your real cost, with invoices, for the 13 items in section 04.

WHAT THIS IS,
AND ISN'T

Built only from reports you downloaded: what Amazon paid, took back and found, and which shipments are still inside their claim window. It does not yet say which shipments are short. That needs each shipment's contents, which is step 2. Amazon decides every claim.

01 Underpaid, still disputable

Payments for lost or damaged units where Amazon paid less per unit than your cost. A paid amount can be disputed for 60 days from the date it was paid, with an invoice showing your cost.

Too late to dispute: 7 older payments, $47.61 below cost. They can't be reopened. Section 04 shows which item costs to correct.

02 Clawbacks to question

Amazon takes a reimbursement back when it says it found the units. Each reversal is checked against the units your inventory ledger shows as found for that item.

REVERSED ON	SKU	UNITS REVERSED	UNITS FOUND	AMOUNT	RESULT
27 Sep 2026	SAMPLE-SKU-16	1	0	$18.23	No units found: ask Amazon

10 Feb 2026	SAMPLE-SKU-13	1	1	$22.18	Matches

3 reversals, $142.37, have no matching found units. That doesn't prove they're wrong. It's the question to put to Amazon.

03 Deadline map

A missing-units claim on an inbound shipment can be filed for 9 months from the delivery date. All 23 shipments received since 16 Jan 2026 are still inside that window. The table is the shortlist: the 10 worth checking for shortages first, by size and how soon they close.

The other 5 are smaller: FBA-SAMPLE-08 (5 Nov, 373 units), FBA-SAMPLE-23 (15 Nov, 367 units), FBA-SAMPLE-07 (8 Dec, 386 units), FBA-SAMPLE-15 (17 Dec, 100 units) and FBA-SAMPLE-05 (25 Dec, 112 units). The remaining 8 close after 31 Dec. Dates from the Received Inventory report; the exact delivery date is confirmed on each shipment in step 2.

04 Valued below your cost
